MUNCH AND LEARN Fall 2 2020
Thursdays – 12:30pm to 2pm

November 5: Meet Charlie Russell, "The Cowboy Artist". A visually rich and fascinating look at arguably the most popular artist of the old west, (1864-1926). Russell was born into a wealthy and prominent St. Louis family. He failed at school and went west to become a self-taught artist who best captured the nostalgia and quickly fading images of the wild west. Along the way he was a sheep herder, carouser, good friend, hopeless self-promoter and, of course, a cowboy. During his lifetime he produced over 4,000 works of art, including oil and watercolor paintings, sculptures in wax, clay, plaster and bronze. The program is presented by Tom Fox who is researching Charlie Russell to develop a one-man show. ,

November 12: Disaster Preparedness by Yavapai County Office of Emergency Management will • present information on disaster preparedness, response, mitigation efforts and recovery. Additional information will include: Firewise information and discussion on COVID-19 and how households can manage COVID-19 positive family members. This is the time to bring up questions concerning personal safety and how our county will handle future problems as they arise.

November 19: The Reverse Underground Railroad: Slavery and Kidnapping in Pre-civil war America. Dr. Richard Bell will share the incredible story of five young free black boys whose courage helped in the fight against slavery in America. In 1825 these boys fall into the clutches of the most fearsome gang of kidnappers and slavers in the United States. Lured into a small ship with the promise of food and pay, they were met instead with blindfolds, ropes and knives. Determined to resist being sold into bondage they form a tight brotherhood as they struggle to free themselves and find their way home.

December 3: Larry & Kat Martin - A wonderful opportunity to learn something about Larry and Kat Martin. He is a novelist and non-fiction writer of western, historical, mystery and thriller novels, and Kat, his wife, is also a best-selling NY times author of romantic, suspenseful and historical novels. "We're writers, we write all the time", Larry declared and between them they have published over 135 books, both nationally and internationally. When Larry is not writing he loves to hunt, fish and wander the backcountry with his camera, both video and still. His works have appeared on national magazine covers and periodicals. Their relationship both personal and artistic seems to have been made in heaven, and they live half the year in Prescott.
